

Approval for Neuroscience-Relevant Courses
Department of Psychology

This form is required to obtain approval for a neuroscience-relevant course outside of Psychology (3000- or 4000-level) to count toward the major for the Behavioral and Cognitive Neuroscience specialization. Please complete this form as follows:

- (1) Fill out the top half of the form completely.
- (2) Take this form to instructor, and have him/her complete the bottom half of the form. Alternatively, you can attach an email from the professor that clearly indicates his/her approval of this course as containing neuroscience-relevant content appropriate for a student pursuing the Behavioral and Cognitive Neuroscience specialization within the Psychology major.
- (3) Bring this form to psychology advising (PSY 135) along with a course syllabus (either a current syllabus or one from a previous semester is acceptable). Ask the advisor to give the information to the Undergraduate Coordinator. You will be notified with the decision regarding approval within a week.
- (4) Any neuroscience-relevant courses outside Psychology must be approved before enrollment to ensure that they will count toward the major.
- (5) Any attempt to turn in this form by falsifying an instructor's signature will be considered an honor code violation.
