Course Description

This course is an introductory survey of neuroscience with special relevance to psychology. An overall goal of this course is to gain appreciation of many of the physiological processes that result in functions of the brain. With an exposition of the tools and perspectives of neuroscience, we will consider how molecular pathways and neural systems produce psychological phenomena. Finally, we will study the application of neuroscience to understand normal brain development, optimize personal wellbeing, and treat disruptions of brain function.

Course Objectives

1. Understand how behavior relates to the structures and functions of the nervous system
2. Explore the mechanisms of sensation, homeostasis of internal states, and behavior
3. Survey mechanisms of functions of motor control, motivation, affect, and cognition
4. Examine how application of neuroscience principles and approaches contributes to remediation and enhancement of psychological well being
5. Investigate how disruptions of neural systems contribute to mental dysfunction

PREREQUISITE KNOWLEDGE and SKILLS:

Students who register for this course are required to have an introductory course in Psychology (e.g. PSY2012). Fundamental knowledge in introductory Biology (e.g. BSC2010) is helpful, but not required. The course is self-contained - meaning that everything you need is contained within the course materials. Accordingly, this course is appropriate for students who have a broad interest in Psychology and the biological basis of behaviour.

Details of Grading and Class Policies

NOTE: Although most information is included in Canvas, this multi-page PDF is the primary course syllabus. Please print out this document. I reserve the right to revise the syllabus in order to accommodate the needs of the course. In case of any updates, please pay attention to announcements.

- We will not cover chapters 5, 7, and 14-18 of the textbook. (e.g., Module 5 is Chapter 6).
- Video lecture numbers do not match Learning Objective numbers.
- Module video lectures above each quiz link must be completed before taking a quiz.
- Pay careful attention to the due dates for quizzes and exams.
- Exams always take place on Wednesdays. It is the responsibility of each student to complete an exam or quiz before any potential conflicts occur for schedules of work or other courses.

TEXTBOOK: Please note that this course participates in the UF All Access program (Required). Opt-In to gain access to your required course materials. Your course schedule at one.uf.edu will direct you toward UF All Access, which will provide you with your required materials digitally at a reduced price and the ability to pay using your student account. All Access is available 1 week prior to semesters and ends 3 weeks after the first day of class.

GRADING: All assessments in this course are on Canvas. Quizzes will count for a total of 40% of the final grade and will cover material in the sub-modules (i.e, chapter sections) for which the quiz is assigned. There are three summative exams. Each examination will address the material from the relevant course segment. The exams total to 60% of the final grade (i.e, 20% per exam).

PROCTORING: Exams for this course are proctored by HonorLock. The benefits of HonorLock are that the proctoring framework is embedded in Canvas without intrusiveness and the need for prior scheduling. The goal of proctoring in this course is to place all students on a level field. Benefits of this technological support for our course include convenience and technical support for assessments online. At the start of the semester please examine and ensure the minimum requirements for your learning environment, and take the practice quiz in Canvas.

EXAM POLICY: Each online exam will be available during only on the date specified in this syllabus. Each exam has a time limit of 60 minutes, and the exam window will cease activity (i.e., automatically close) at the end of the 60 minutes. You have only a single opportunity to take each exam. All online quizzes and examinations must be completed on time (i.e. by the due date and time). Exams summarize what has been learned in the course for a set of modules. Feedback will not be provided on exams in order to support the validity of material for comparison from year to year across classes. Honor code violations for an exam will result in grade sanctions of a 20% point-value reduction on the exam (i.e., two letter-grades).

QUIZ POLICY: Each online quiz is available a minimum of a week before its due date and time. Then, after the due date it will disappear, along with the opportunity to get points for it. Each quiz has a time limit of 10 minutes, and the quiz form in Canvas will cease activity at the end of the time period. Quizzes will consist of individually presented multiple-choice and/or short-answer questions. Students who share or attempt to share information pertaining to course content in the form that is assessed in quizzes or exams will be referred to Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution (SCCR) Office in the Dean of Students Office. <https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/policies/student-honor-code-student-conduct-code/> Honor code violations for quizzes will result in grade sanctions of a 20% point-value reduction on the assignment.

When taking quizzes It's important to read textbook sections and watch lectures before each quiz. You have only one opportunity to take each quiz, so make certain you are well prepared before you start the quiz.

Feedback from quizzes Learning assessments consist of frequent low-stakes quizzes, and will NOT be provided online. Instructive and general feedback for quiz questions is geared toward indicating areas of material that need additional work. Feedback pertaining to missed questions or correct answers will be provided only during office hours for an individual student. Office hours meeting to discuss quizzes can be in person or in a closed-room conference on Zoom. Specific instructions for use of audio/visual conferencing on Zoom are on the UF E-learning website. <https://elearning.ufl.edu/zoom/>

LATE POLICY At the start of the semester, please read through the syllabus for potential conflicts that will occur. Students are expected to progress through the course on the timetable outlined in this syllabus. It is advised that students take quizzes and turn in assignments early, in order to avoid any potential (i.e., but, unlikely) problems with technology. A late quiz or exam will be lowered 10% for every day it is late, including weekends. Once a deadline passes at midnight, the late policy is implemented by Canvas.

Situations where adjustments will not be made

- Travel – Students are responsible to take quizzes or exams before travelling.
- Internet Connection Problem – It is the responsibility of each student to take quizzes and exams from locations with a reliable internet connection. - Technical Problems From Other Causes – Although is the responsibility of each student to have a reliable connection to complete homework and take quizzes and exams, there are other problems that can occur. If there is a different problem, a support ticket must be obtained directly from HonorLock or from the UF help desk. Technical support from these services will be necessary diagnose and certify the source of any problem. In fact, causes of connection problems, hardware, or other software problems can be adequately diagnosed, so students are encouraged to actively troubleshoot with support personnel. Course instructors will not respond regarding any technical problems that do not have a prior support ticket from UF or HonorLock.
