Course Description

This course is designed to introduce doctoral students to ethical issues in the field of Counseling Psychology and other applied psychology related to the practice of the many facets of psychology, ethical guidelines, and trends in the profession. Attention will be given to the most recent ethical codes by the American Psychological Association (APA) and the Ethnic Psychological Associations (EPAs) ethical codes. Issues within psychology regarding multiculturalism, social justice, civil disobedience, and liberation are integrated throughout the course.

Psychologists encounter difficult ethical situations on a regular basis in different areas of their work such as research, activism, and clinical practice. It is important to navigate the often gray and murky ethical waters you will encounter in your career. We will discuss ethical principles, critical theory, and real-life case examples of difficult ethical situations. Because the field of psychology was built and continues to be sustained by white supremacy values, this course will problematize and disrupt this historical and current narrative. At its core, this course aims to interrogate how ethics in psychology have function to protect white supremacy, patriarchy, heterocisnormativity, middle and upper class, English-speaking, and Christianity (to name a few).

Course Objectives

- 1- Familiarize yourself, critically interrogate, and apply different psychological ethical codes, including APA and the EPAs.
- 2- Help facilitate your ability to think critically in navigating ethical dilemmas in order to make ethical decisions from a culturally appropriate, decolonized, and liberatory stance.
- 3- Help facilitate your critical understanding of the professional literature addressing contemporary legal, ethical, and professional issues in psychology, with an emphasis on issues pertaining to Counseling Psychology.

4- Familiarize yourself and apply Counseling Psychology values to guide ethical decisions.

Collective Knowledge

This course has been built and influenced by different mentors and scholars who teach ethics and related courses at other counseling psychology programs across the US including Drs. Melanie Domenech Rodríguez, James Brooks, and Amanda Lawson-Ross. Their collective knowledge, wisdom, and consejos (advice), have helped built and strengthened this course. I also invite students to bring and share their ideas and cultural experiences throughout the semester. It is my hope that we will learn and growth as a collective throughout this course! Please share topics and resources that may expand our discussion in areas you believe our class needs to be strengthened.

Learning Process and Teaching Philosophy

I believe that learning occurs when we are able to make meaningful connections to the material presented. I believe that the meaning-making process occurs through relationships with: 1) the instructor, 2) the course content, 3) peers and 4) self. The assignments, expectations, tasks, and goals of this course are created to facilitate one or more of these relationships. If students are to benefit and learn from this course, then it will take a collaborative effort in which each student and the instructor is fully engaged to understand and make relevant the material that is to be learned. This includes challenging each other! While I recognize the power dynamics that exist in our relationship, I invite you all to challenge and hold me accountable. My goal is to model how to be held accountable while remaining open to growth. I will practice clarity, transparency, authenticity, humility, and genuineness to the course and our relationship. My hope is that you will afford me the same and that you will engage meaningfully in all aspects of the course.

Attendance

I expect that you will attend each of our weekly sessions. With that said, from extreme acts of anti-Blackness being displayed in the media consistently to xenophobic and transphobic policies being passed locally, statewide, and nationally (to just name a few oppressive acts), I understand that we are living through unprecedented times. Therefore, please do not hesitate to reach out if you need accommodations and/or need to be absent; and this invitation extends to each and everyone of you in the class.

Provision of changes to the syllabus

The included schedule, policies, and assignments are subject to change in the event of extenuating circumstances or by mutual agreement between the instructor and class participants.

Use of APA style

All papers must use APA formatting and style, including references, citations, use of non-biased language, etc. Students must refer to the APA Publication Manual, 7th edition, for all questions related to APA style.

Email communication

I will respond regularly to email between 8:00am and 4:00pm Monday –Friday. If I have not responded to your email after two (2) business day (48 hours), please resend the email. I will communicate all course related materials and announcements to your UF email account. You are encouraged to either check your UF email at least once a day or forward your account email to your preferred email provider.

University Honesty Policy

"We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity." This applies, but is not limited, to cheating and plagiarism.

If you do a paper for this class, write it in your own words. It is possible to plagiarize a source even if no full sentences are copied word-for-word. In writing papers, please consult with APA style (7th edition). Reference your sources and write in your own words. According to the Academic Dishonesty guide and the University's Student code of Conduct, "Plagiarism, cheating, or other forms of academic dishonesty" may lead to grade penalty, "formal disciplinary probation, suspension, or dismissal."

Accommodations

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565; <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

I strive to make this course accessible to students with diverse needs, strengths, and abilities. Please talk with me about any concerns you may have regarding accessibility and this course. If you think you may need accommodations, please contact the Disability Resource Center (DRC) as early as possible in the semester so that I can make any necessary adjustments to the course. You can call the DRC at (352) 392-8565 or visit www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/ for more information. They are dedicated to making sure students with various abilities have success at the university. Usually you'll talk with someone and may do additional assessments in order to develop the best plan possible. After you register with them, you'll get a letter that you show to me so that I can make the appropriate accommodations. It's okay to call them with any questions you might have. I am also more than happy to talk with you as well. If anything happens during the semester that may necessitate accommodations, please reach out to me and the DRC as soon as possible to make sure you have what you need to learn and be successful in the course.

Evaluation of this course

I appreciate and value your feedback so that I can continue to improve upon this course and my teaching skills. You can complete the evaluation online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

Because I believe that student feedback is crucial for the success of a course, I will seek your feedback before the semester ends. That is, I will seek your qualitative feedback halfway through the semester via an anonymous link. We will discuss themes about what is working and not working for and makes changes for the rest of the semester accordingly.

COVID-19 Considerations

In response to COVID-19, the following practices are in place to maintain your learning environment, to enhance the safety of our in-classroom interactions, and to further the health and safety of ourselves, our neighbors, and our loved ones.

- If you are not vaccinated, get vaccinated. Vaccines are readily available at no cost and have been demonstrated to be safe and effective against the COVID-19 virus. Visit this link for details on where to get your shot, including options that do not require an appointment: <https://coronavirus.ufhealth.org/vaccinations/vaccine-availability/>. Students who receive the first dose of the vaccine somewhere off-campus and/or outside of Gainesville can still receive their second dose on campus.

- You are expected to wear approved face coverings at all times during class and within buildings even if you are vaccinated. Please continue to follow healthy habits, including best practices like frequent hand washing. Following these practices is our responsibility as Gators.
 - Sanitizing supplies are available in the classroom if you wish to wipe down your desks prior to sitting down and at the end of the class.
 - Hand sanitizing stations will be located in every classroom.
- If you sick, stay home and self-quarantine. Please visit the UF Health Screen, Test & Protect website about next steps, retake the questionnaire and schedule your test for no sooner than 24 hours after your symptoms began. Please call your primary care provider if you are ill and need immediate care or the UF Student Health Care Center at 352-392-1161 (or email covid@shcc.ufl.edu) to be evaluated for testing and to receive further instructions about returning to campus. Visit the UF Health Screen, Test & Protect website for more information.
 - Course materials will be provided to you with an excused absence, and you will be given a reasonable amount of time to make up work.
 - If you are withheld from campus by the Department of Health through Screen, Test & Protect you are not permitted to use any on campus facilities. Students attempting to attend campus activities when withheld from campus will be referred to the Dean of Students Office.
- Continue to regularly visit coronavirus.UFHealth.org and coronavirus.ufl.edu for up-to-date information about COVID-19 and vaccination.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual Harassment is not tolerated in this class, in the Department of Psychology, or at the University of Florida. Sexual harassment includes: the inappropriate introduction of sexual activities or comments in a situation where sex would otherwise be irrelevant. Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination and a violation of state and federal laws as well as of the policies and regulations of the university. All UF employees and students must adhere to UF's sexual harassment policy which can be found here: <https://hr.ufl.edu/forms-policies/policies-managers/sexual-harassment/>. Please review this policy and contact a university official if you have any questions about the policy. As mandatory reporters, university employees (e.g., administrators, managers, supervisors, faculty, teaching assistants, staff) are required to report knowledge of sexual harassment to UF's Title IX coordinator. For more information about UF's Title IX office see: <https://titleix.ufl.edu/>. You can also complete a Sexual Harassment Report online (Title IX) at: <https://titleix.ufl.edu/title-ix-reporting-form/>.

In-Class Recording

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040

Assignment Requirements and Evaluation Criteria

All assignments will be submitted via Canvas on the date indicated by each assignment, not through email or hard copies. Course assignments and grades are as follow:

1. Participation (100 points). Each student will be responsible for completing the assigned readings prior to the class periods when they will be discussed. Some class readings will come from the assigned textbook, but the majority of your reading assignments will come from peer-reviewed articles. See the course Reader below course schedule.

Participation will be graded as follows:

1. Posting discussion questions and/or comments based on that week’s material (40 points). You will post a total of 2-3 questions and/or comments each week in the Discussions tab of Canvas (please make it public for everyone to see). These discussion questions are due at 11:59pm on the day before that class.
 2. Facilitating group discussions that lasts at least 45 minutes (based on common themes among questions and/or comments submitted through Canvas; 30 points).
 3. Engaging in a discussion during class that continues course discussion. This will facilitate a smooth and enriched discussion where additional information or perspectives will be discussed (30 points).
2. Psychology Ethical Codes Paper (150 points). This assignment was developed by Dr. Melanie Domenech Rodriguez and modified for our class. In pairs, this paper will focus on a comparison across the FOUR assigned ethics codes- APA, ABPsi, NLPA, SIP. The goal of this paper is to have students consider ethical codes as culturally-rooted documents which reflect values of particular groups of professional psychologists. Each group will prepare a paper (a table and/or bullet points will be fine) that compares the FOUR codes in: (a) scope,

(b) specificity, and (c) underlying values. Scope refers to what roles (e.g., research, practice) are addressed in the codes. Specificity refers to the degree of detailed guidance found across roles (e.g., in research: one may cover publication, another code may not). Finally, underlying values refers to the stated-- and perhaps unstated—assumptions found in the code that you believe inform the principles and standards found in the code.

In class, we will discuss the similarities and differences across codes including who are the codes meant to protect, reasons why such ethical codes exist, etc. More than just presenting the information, I want this to be a critical conversation where we get to interrogate current guidelines. This will be your first assignment because I want you to have a culturally mindful view of ethical guidelines (not just APA's) as a foundation for the rest of the topics that we will cover throughout the semester. Your paper will be uploaded to Canvas (Discussion section) by the beginning of class so we can engage in a meaningful class discussion.

3. Research Disaster Presentation (100 points). This assignment was developed by Dr. Melanie Domenech Rodriguez and modified for our class. In pairs, students will sign up for one “research disaster” (see Canvas) and present about: (a) background on the disaster, including what occurred, when, and what the consequences were, (b) what the ethical and legal issues involved in this particular disaster were (go beyond APA's ethical codes), (c) what modern day research ethics practices and/or procedures were informed by this event(s), and (d) what are current day indications that this research disaster still affects the lives of people today. List all of the resources you used in obtaining the information. Be sure to address the demographic characteristics of those affected and provide a commentary how systemic oppression toward these individuals placed them at risk.

This assignment will provide students an opportunity to reach beyond the known generalities of a particular event. These incidents occurred in a sociopolitical context, in a particular point in time, and at specific point of development of our discipline. The deeper level of knowledge should support engagement with these critical incidents away from “an example of what not to do” and towards “an example of what could happen” and “an example of what is STILL happening” (e.g., the same violent and anti-Black ideas that justified Tuskegee experiments are still very much prevalent today!). You will give a brief presentation during class on the indicated date (35-45 minutes total). Your presentation will be uploaded to Canvas (Discussion section) by the beginning of class so we can engage in a meaningful class discussion.

List of research disasters to pick from: (a) Facebook Case Study; (b) Havasupai Case; (c) Milgram; (d) Regnerus and Same-sex/gender parents; (e) Tuskegee Syphilis

4. Decision-Making Model Paper (150 points). This assignment was developed by Dr. Amanda Lawson-Ross and modified for our class. The goal here is to mimic walking through an ethical dilemma on your own. You are encouraged to use the decision-making model by the authors of the (<https://kspope.com/memory/ethics.php>) but you are welcome to use one of the decision-making models we learned in class. Remember to not only consider the APA Code of Ethics but also the other ethical codes we have discussed in class. Similarly, when consulting the literature make sure to think of cultural differences in your approach. In addition, come-up with 2-3 questions to help facilitate the class discussion. They can be questions you have regarding the case or questions you think may stimulate discussion. You must prepare and upload to Canvas your paper by time class starts so we can engage in a meaningful class discussion.

NOTE: In Canvas, you will see a folder in the “Modules” section with several ethical cases to pick from.

5. Division and Organization Presentation (100 points). As a professional, it is important for your continued development that you belong to organizations that can aid in your staying up to date and informed regarding pertinent topics in your area of interest. As such, this assignment asks you to identify one (1) division of the American Psychological Association (APA) and one (1) organization outside of the APA that are of professional interest to you and to give a brief presentation on the division and organization to your classmates (~30 minutes total). You must prepare and upload to Canvas a 1-page handout per organization through the Discussion tab so that the entire class has access to it (a PDF version of the handout or any other desired form). The assignment is due by time class starts.

6. Ethical and Professional Issues Paper (100 points). Each student is expected to prepare a paper on a topic related to an ethical or professional issue current in the applied practice of psychology. Topics can include (but are not limited to) ethical issues in managed care, telehealth, current research catastrophe (if you chose this option, it must be a different research catastrophe than we ones that were presented in class), working with Black, Indigenous, and people of Color (BIPOC) to address racial trauma, prescription privileges, couples therapy, counseling children, counseling adolescents, multicultural competency, rural practice, sincerely held principles, etc. The body of the paper should be approximately 8-12 pages (inclusive of reference page) in length and prepared according to the guidelines outlined in the current edition of the publication manual of APA, 7th edition. Be sure to include a minimum of 10-12 recent (less than 7 years) professional journal articles in your paper as they present the most current information available. When searching for professional journal articles is recommended that students begin by looking in counseling-related journals (e.g., The Counseling Psychologist, Journal of Counseling Psychology, Counselling Psychology Quarterly). This paper is due to Canvas by 11:59pm on the due date.

Late Assignments

It is my intent that all assignments will be turned in on time (see dates on course schedule below). Assignments cannot be made-up except in the case of extreme circumstances that meet the criteria of the University of Florida policy for an excused absence. Make-ups are only given for illnesses that require medical treatment, valid emergencies, and valid scheduling conflicts. With this said, as described earlier in the syllabus, we are living through unprecedented times. Therefore, please do not hesitate to reach out if you need accommodations. And, yes, I do consider being exposed to daily experiences of oppression (e.g., racial trauma; the effects of xenophobic and transphobic policies) an emergency and I will work with you to make sure you are successful in this course while prioritizing your emotional well-being.
